MORE RAIN COMING TO BREAK HOT WAVE

Indications at Noon Pointed to Welcome Relief From Torrid Spell.

YESTERDAY WAS A SCORCHER

Friday's Thunder Storm Did Not Break the Hot Wave Which Has Held Region in Its Grasp Since the First of the Month.

Thunder storms this afternoon and probably Tuesday; no appreciable change in the temperature, is the noon weather bulletin

Those who predicted last Friday's storm spelled an end to the hot wave had another guess. Saturday and Sunday were days as hot as the ones which had preceded the rain and today promised to smash heat records until noon when a thunderstorm threatened. There has been intense suffering from the heat but a respite was promised this afternoon. The first 10 days of July have broken all previous records, as far as the recollection of "oldest inhabitants" can be relied upon. The hot wave began with the first day of the month and continued until today with but a single interruption.

Saturday was, in some respects an improvement over the variety of weather that had previously prevailed. There were a few cool spots, out of the sun, where breezes blew, while the air was clear. The sun was unusually hot, however. The evening reading Saturday was 89 degrees, but the highest mark during the day came close to 95. Yesterday morning the temperature was 81 but did not stay there long. It began going upwards. During the afternoon it varied between 92 and 93 while the air was still and stuffy.

This morning the mark was 81 degrees at 8 o'clock. The morning was very warm until the sky clouded over and rain threatened.

"This is the hottest spell for July that I can remember since the war," remarked Joseph A. Mason this morning. "The only stretch of hot weather that was worse than [illegible] I can remember was in 1864, [illegible] fighting about Snicker's Gap, and it was sweltering weather that time I cannot remember spell than this."

The swimmers were out yesterday. The river was [illegible] bathers. The still waters [illegible] West Penn dam proved [illegible] popular spot in this section. [illegible] of swimmers splashed abo[illegible] water and in that manne[illegible] relief from the torrid weat[illegible]

M. Toth Claims Shooting Accidental

Mike Toth was committed to jail at Uniontown Sunday evening on a charge of murder. He is alleged to have shot and killed Paul Repancky at Colonial coke plant No 3 Sunday morning The man was shot through the head Toth claims it was an accident, but fled after the shooting. Sheriff P. A. Johns, County Detective Alex McBeth and two police officers arrested Toth at Fairbanks. They found him in a house, hidden under a pile of old rags.

The cause of the killing is a mystery as it appeared that the victim and Toth were good friends. Recently they had their pictures taken together. They were in the front room upstairs in their boarding house at Colonial No. 3 yesterday morning. A revolver in the hands of Toth was discharged and the bullet penetrated the brain, striking Ripiachy in the right eye and emerging from the rear of the head Immediately after the shooting, Toth threw the gun on the floor and escaped.

A Bargain Day Meeting Tonight

The merchants interested in bargain day on August 1 will meet this evening for the purpose of further discussing plans. The committee appointed to canvass the town will make their reports and it will be determined how many merchants are willing to participate in the movement and to what extent it can be financed.

The meeting will not be called until 9 o'clock in order that all business men may be in attendance.

Portland Minister in Pulpit.

Rev. Robert J. Divens of Portland, Oregon, will occupy the pulpit of the First United Presbyterian church next Sunday morning.

George Cornish and His Better Half Have a Dispute Over Financial Matters.

George Cornish of Trotter at the request of his wife, Pauline Cornish, was arrested this morning in Connellsville by Constable William Roland of Dunbar township and was taken to the office of Squire P. M. Buttermore of the West Side where the trouble was settled between Cornish and his wife by the two drawing up an agreemnt concerning real estate and money, the latter being deposited in a local bank.

It appears that Cornish had been drinking pretty heavily and this morning his wife went to the home of Constable Roland at Trotter and told the Constable that her husband was going to leave town. Constable Roland came to Connellsville where he located Cornish Mrs. Cornish owns property in the old country and Mr. Cornish has a sum of money in a local bank. The agreement was that Mrs. Cornish was to sell her property in the old country and the money was to be deposited in the name of Mr. and Mrs Cornish and the money already in the bank was to be deposited likewise. No information was made.

Tin Plate Rumor is Not Verified

The report that the tin plate workers have been ordered to report for duty at Humbert on August 1 does not seem to be verified by conditions at the mill at this time. While the mill is in good shape for an early resumption it is not expected the order will come for some time yet. At the mill it was stated no orders had been issued setting a time for resuming operation.

The mill, it is said, is in splendid shape excepting the engine Parts required to put it in running condition have been ordered and will be placed when they arrive

Chief Clerk A. K. Murrie has gone to New Kensington and will be located there until Humbert resumes. Superintendent John Griffin is taking a vacation. It is said that he is at Cambridge, O., for the present.

Matrimony Saves Silver From Term

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, July 10—Francesco Silvestro, better known as Nick Silver, saved himself another sentence Saturday when he married little Angiolina Mardo, aged 15. Silvestro had just been released from the workhouse where he served nine months for felonious cutting.

Little Angiolina, aged 15, carried a child, three months old, in her arms when the pair appeared before Register and Recorder C. O. Schroyer and were self-married. The wedding resulted in the information against Silvestro being withdrawn. He was charged with the girl's ruin.

Fayette Medicos Picnic Tomorrow

The annual basket picnic of the Fayette County Medical Society will be held tomorrow on the Borg farm, near the Summit. A big turnout of the physicians and their wives is expected Connellsville and vicinity will be represented.

Among the physicians from here who expect to attend are Drs. E. B. Edie, T. H. White, C. W. Utts, L. P. McCormick, H. J. Coll, H. P. Athiason, T. R. Francis, H. C. Hoffman, and E. C. Sherrick of Connellsville; Dr. H. J. Bell of Dawson; Dr. H. E. Hall of Vanderbilt, and Dr. E. A. McCombs of Broad Ford.

Horse Backed Wagon in Front of a Car

Caesar Salamenono, an Italian driver for the Connellsville Ice Cream Company, is at the Cottage State hospital with a slight concussion resulting from an accident with which he met last evening at the west end of the Yough bridge. The horse frightened at a street car as it was approaching and backed the wagon across the track in front of a car.

Salamenono was thrown from the wagon and sustained a slight concussion. He was conscious when admitted to the hospital. Mike Farola was also thrown from the wagon but escaped injuries.

New Hotel for the Cheat Valley

During a conference at Morgantown of representatives of the Chess estate and the Kendall Lumber Company, regarding the transfer of 11,000 acres of timber land in Monongalia and Preston counties, W. Va., it developed that the Chess interests are retaining 650 acres of land near Mont Chateau and are planning to erect a big summer hotel there. The conference was attended by W. C. Charlton, general manager of the Chess interests, Harvey Chess, heir to the estate, J. L. Kendall, representing the buyers, the chief engineer of the Chess interests and the counsel for the Chess people.

Miss McDiffett Resigns Position

Miss Anna McDiffett of the West Side at a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the McCrum Slovanic Mission Training school, Uniontown, tendered her resignation as manager and teacher of the school Miss McDiffett expects to leave in October for New York to take a course in an Interdenominational Bible Training School.

Miss McDiffett taught in the local public schools for over five years and resigned her school to accept the position which she now holds Her work in the school has been a great success and it is with the deepest regret that the board accepted her resignation. During the summer she is traveling representative for the school.

Bumper Crop of Nebraska Corn

United Press Telegram.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 10.—With the six-weeks drouth in the South Platte region broken by a drenching rain Sunday, corn prospects in Nebraska today are booming. The rain area covered almost the entire State, the precipitation varying from one-half inch to two inches

The outlook now presages one of the greatest harvests in the history of the State. Early potatoes and oats were badly damaged by the drouth and intense heat; but late potatoes and alfalfa will be a good crop.

Local Elks Go to the Seashore

The Connellsville Elks are on their way to the seashore A delegation left last evening on the Duquesne for Atlantic City where the convention is being held this year The advance guard left Friday when R. W. Leibiger and F. H. Harmening hiked eastward. Among those who went last evening were Ralph Morton, Martin King and Harry Deboit. Another party, headed by H. M. Kephart, will leave today some time.

Judge R. E Umbel headed the Uniontown delegation which went east last night bound for Atlantic City convention.

Too Hot Above for Aviators

United Press Telegram.

BALTIMORE, July 10—Declaring that the heat was too powerful, the temperature being at 95 degrees, Harry N. Atwood and Charles K. Hamilton alighted near this city this morning after flying from Atlantic City in the last leg of the Washington-New York flight.

They declared that although they were 6,000 feet above the earth, conditions were almost an "inferno." Both of the aviators were nearly exhausted when they came to the ground.

An Auto Party From Rockwood

G. A. Miller and Charles Henry drove down from Rockwood in the former's car yesterday to attend the funeral of the late James Barnes at Snydertown. They came by way of Trent and Scullton. At the latter place they picked up J. W. Henry and Bruce Henry.

At Snydertown the party were the guests of E. G. Henry. The return trip was made last evening Mr. Miller is connected with the First National Bank at Rockwood

ESTRANGED FATHER KILLS HIS CHILD.

Returns Home, Shoots Girl and Then Turns Gun on Self.

TRAGEDY NEAR PARKERSBURG

Child Was Sleeping in Cart on Neighbor's Porch, When Parent Commits Awful Deed—Allen Dying in the Hospital.

United Press Telegram.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 10—A shocking tragedy occurred near here in North Parkersburg, a suburb of this city, at 10 o'clock this morning when W. H Allen, who had been separated from his wife for the past month, returned here from Zanesville, O., where he has been working and shot his two-year old daughter while she lay in her cart on the front porch of a neighbor's where she had been taken by her grandmother, Mrs. Sheridan Pringle.

After he had shot the child Allen ran about a half mile to Beechwood Heights and, going to the rear of a residence there shot himself in the head, emptying the other barrel of the shotgun with which he had killed the child. He was rushed to the City hospital in a patrol wagon but can live only a short time.

New Attorney is Admitted to Firm

The legal firm of Sterling, Higbee & Matthews, with offices in Connellsville and Uniontown, has taken into its organization a new member and while the change became effective July 1, announcement was not made until today The new member is Charles L. Lewellyn, one of the younger members of the bar. Mr. Lewellyn will spend the greater part of his time in the Connellsville offices of the firm, on the fourth floor of the Title & Trust building The firm name, for the present at least, will remain unchanged

Mr. Lewellyn is a graduate of West Virginia University and was admitted to practise before the Fayette county bar about a year ago. He was for some years principal of the Brownsville schools and more recently principal of the North Union township High School. He read law in the Uniontown office of the firm with which he is now a member.

The firm of Sterling, Higbee & Matthews is one of the most prominent in the county. It is composed of Attorneys E. C. Higbee and R. S. Matthews of Connellsville, and B. F. Sterling of Uniontown Originally the firm was organized by Attorneys Higbee, Sterling and H. S Dumbauld Later W. H. Brown became a member and the firm name was changed to Sterling, Higbee, Dumbauld & Brown Upon the death of W H Brown the title reverted to the original name but later Mr. Dumbauld withdrew and Attorney R. S. Matthews was taken into the partnership. Mr. Matthews for more than a year past has been in charge of the Connellsville office.

A Sunday Run to Waynesburg

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Soisson and children, Louise and Demetrius, Mrs. Ida Paine, J. D. Armstrong, clerk at the Arlington Hotel and Stewart S. Stillwell, clerk at the Royal Hotel, made up a party that made a trip in Mr. Soisson's 1911, 30 H. P Pope-Hartford car to Waynesburg, Greene county, and return yesterday, going by way of Uniontown to Carmichaels. At Carmichaels they were guests of George S. Stillwell for lunch. From Carmichaels to Waynesburg they drove over some of Greene county's best roads, and at the county seat of Greene were the guests of Albert Crago, brother of Congressman T. S Crago.

The run to Waynesburg, 40 miles, was made in two hours and thirty minutes, good time considering the stops that were made. The first leg of the trip to Uniontown was made in 35 minutes Stewart S. Stillwell was at the wheel

Oil or Gas Strike Reported

The report has gained circulation that Mrs Sarah B. Cochran has struck oil on her premises at the handsome St. James park in Lower Tyrone township. The gossip is that a flow of oil was tapped while drillers were boring for well water. The strike is supposed to have been made on Saturday.

Mrs. Cochran is not at St James park and attendants there today refused to confirm or deny the rumor other than to say they "hadn't heard about it." A prominent Dawson man this morning advanced the theory that the rumor was started because the oil company in West Virginia in which H B Moore is interested struck a promising gusher last week Mr. Moore is Mrs Cochran's brother.—

"It is possible the fact that Mr. Moore's company struck oil caused the report to be circulated that Mrs. Cochran's place was being turned into an oil field," he said.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, July 10—Orders of distribution in small estates were made today at a brief session of Orphans' Court before Judge J. C Work. In most of the instances distribution had already been made among the heirs, the order being the formal approval by the court

The estates in which the distributions were made were those of the following deceased persons. David P. Hill, John A Young, Mary E Creel, Martha Williams, David E Kuhn and George Herbottsheimer.

An Ice Famine at Dawson Sunday

There has been an ice famine at Dawson since last Wednesday. The great demand there has been for ice in Connellsville and vicinity has taken all and more than the Connellsville plants can turn out and Dawson, which received its supply, or the big end of it, at least from Connellsville, had to be cut off

Only a very limited amount of ice was furnished Dawson yesterday. In fact only the drug stores are reported to have had any. Private residences were not supplied and Dawson dinners yesterday were the poorest people there have had in many a long day.

ASH BRINGS SUIT

Against Fruit Stand Proprietors as Result of Scrap.

Frank Funario appeared before Squire P. M. Buttermore of the West Side Saturday afternoon and gave bail for his appearance at court on a charge of assault and battery made by Griffin Ash

DUNBAR MEN SAVE AN UNKNOWN MAN.

Victim Was Unconscious in Rushing Waters of Dunbar Creek.

WAS REVIVED WITH DIFFICULTY

Stream Was Swollen From Rains of Friday and Supposition is That Man Lost His Balance—Gave No Name or Residence—Saved on Saturday.

A. R. Hurst and Richard Smiley rescued an unknown man from drowning in the swift waters of Dunbar creek Saturday near Dunbar. When taken from the water the man was exhausted and could not be revived for some time

Hurst and Smiley were standing at the Semet Solvay plant when they noticed the man in the water When they first saw him he had ceased struggling and was helpless The immediately plunged into the raging waters and reached the unconscious victim, bringing him to shore

The creek was unusually high and the current swift. The hard rain of Friday afternoon had sent it to a flood stage. It is presumed the man attempted to cross the creek at some point above where he was first seen, lost his balance and tumbled in.

When revived the man was still dazed. He was asked his name but gave none and after a bit walked off without leaving any clue to his identity. But for the prompt action of the rescuers the man would undoubtedly have perished. As it was only the skill of Hurst and Smiley in resuscitating the victim succeeded in saving his life

A Peg Maker Loses Fingers

Ilonza Leichliter, an employe of the Keystone Planing Mill Company, was the victim of an accident Saturday afternoon which resulted in the loss of three fingers on his left hand and part of another one The injured man worked on the jointing machine and was making pegs such as are used by surveyors when his hand was caught in the saw.

The first three fingers were taken off entirely. He was removed to the Cottage State hospital where his hand was dressed. He left the hospital today.

WHY THEY FAIL.

Most Pile Remedies Miss the Cause of Piles.

Disagreeable treatment with ointments or suppositories usually fails to cure piles and cutting them off won't remove the cause. Such treatment only moderates the outside effects of the disease and fails to remedy the inside cause. The up-to-date doctors now use internal medicine, to free the circulation in the lower bowel, and so remove the disease.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, the first and only guaranteed internal pile cure—in the form of tablets—cures any kind of piles. Sold by A. A. Clarke, Connellsville, Pa. $1 for large box Dr Leonhardt Co, Station H, Buffalo, N. Y.

New Zion if See Gets Off

United Press Telegram

CHICAGO, July 10.—The summing up of the attorneys in the trial of Evelyn Arthur See, high priest of the "Absolute Life" began today, with the prospect that three days would be occupied in the speech making.

It developed today that See and Mrs Stephen H. Bridges have secured an option on a large tract of land near Chicago, and if the jury releases the "god man" it is the intention of the prophet and Mrs. Bridges to found a new Zion, into which the followers of the cult may take themselves away from the inquisitive and there practice the rites of "Absolute Life."

See is worth between $200,000 and $300,000, all made as the "retealer." Mrs Bridges is said to be wealthy herself and to have received a large sum from her husband, a wholesale jeweler at the time of their separation. It is declared to be the intention of See and Mrs. Bridges to found a new Junior Commonwealth, on the order of Dowie's Zion City.

GERTRUDE GORDON HERE.

Pittsburg Feature Artist Will Try Her Hand on Connellsville.

Miss Gertrude Gordon, feature writer of the Pittsburg Press, is in Connellsville today gathering material for a special story on the town that will appear in that paper in the near future.

Miss Gordon is the stellar human interest writer of Pittsburg and makes a specialty of "sob" stories. Her professional admirers declare she can put a tear in every sentence and an old fashioned "blubber" in a paragraph. Miss Gordon called on The Courier immediately upon her arrival this morning for facts about the Center of the Coke Region, not for sobs. She is going to Uniontown for the sobs. She will be in town for a day or so.

Ship Goes Down; Believe All Dead

United Press Telegram.

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich, July 10 According to members of the crew of the steamer Matoa today, the steamer John Mitchell, upbound, was sunk last night off Vermillion Point when she collided with the steamer William P. Mack and it is believed the seven passengers on board and her crew of 20 have perished.

The William P. Mack is reported lying just off the point with her bow stove in and her superstructure just above water. No trace of the John Mitchell can be found.

The Matoa reported passing through wreckage, such as window sashes, life rafts and life preservers, indicating the total loss of the John Mitchell. The Mitchell was captained by John Massey and was loaded with coal for Superior, Wis

Officers Fail to Agree on Facts

United Press Telegram.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—There is a conflict in the statements made today regarding the number of lives lost in the wreck of the steamer Santa Rosa by Captain Farda, who commanded the boat and C. D Dunnan, general manager of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, which owned the vessel.

Dunnan declared positively that no passengers perished while Captain Farla stated 10 or 12 went down when the first lifeboat turned over. The two men are also in conflict over the responsibility for the delay in rescuing the passengers Dunnan denies that Farla was ordered to keep the passengers aboard all of Friday by wireless, which Farla says he was.

Rev. Dietrick is Sternly Arraigned

United Press Telegram.

PITTSBURG, July 10.—Six resolutions criticising severely the Rev. J. H. Dietrick, pastor of St. Mark's Reformed church, who is charged with heresy, accompanied the acceptance of his resignation as a member of the church by the Allegheny Classis this afternoon, which met in Grace Reformed church.

He is condemned for ignoring the elders and for the harm which he has done the church and State. Sympathy is expressed for his congregation. He is also condemned for not coming forward and allowing himself to be tried today. Dietrick left yesterday, it is said, on a two months' vacation. He will probably become a Unitarian.

IMPOSSIBLE.

"Everybody wonders what I see in you."

"How can you expect to see anything in that hat?"

WRONG IDEA.

"Your little brother says your father said you were crazy to marry me."

"He misquoted papa. Papa said I'd be insane if I married you."

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

SMITHFIELD.

SMITHFIELD, July 8—The weather man made good, at least in spots. This section was visited by a spectacular electric storm, accompanied by a refreshing shower of an hour's duration Friday evening that laid the dust and relieved the intense heat conditions that have prevailed since the first of the month.

The lightning which was sharp and vivid, struck a locust tree that stood on the school lot and near the school building and shivered it from top to bottom. With the exception of a few window lights in the building broken by the jar, no other damage was done.

Dr. J. R. Goodwin of Woodside, who is attending Lloyd, the 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hibbs, made a professional call on his patient Saturday morning. He reports his condition improved. His present condition is resultant from taking cold on measles, developing pneumonia, which arrested left his respiratory organs in bad condition.

Smith Shoaf of Nicholson township No. 2, was a borough visitor Saturday morning.

Mrs. Jacob Wheeler has filed an affidavit of claim against Basil A. Brownfield of South Union township, for a bill that she claims Brownfield owed her husband for work, when he died. Amount of claim $1.65.

The Sheriff's big auto and a posse were scouring this community Friday supposedly hunting Frank Smith.

Mrs. J. C. Kiger of East Georges township, was a borough shopper Saturday.

Dr. Mellinger and wife of Masontown, were calling on relatives here on Friday.

T. J. Tarr, administrator of the estate of Mrs. Pathier Smith, was in the Borough Friday posting bills of the sale of her personal effects, which will be at her late residence in Woodbridgetown.

T. L. Boord of Nicholson township was an early caller Saturday morning.

Billie Irwin of Uniontown, was a business visitor Thursday.

Arthur Sitton recently graduated from a Pittsburg school of dentistry, is the guest of relatives here.

Guy Ridenour and wife have returned from an outing, embracing the 4th, with friends and relatives at Pittsburg.

ROCKWOOD.

ROCKWOOD, July 8—William Benford, who has been suffering from a complication of diseases for several weeks, passed to his reward Saturday morning about 4 o'clock. Mr. Benford had been a brakeman on the S. & C. branch of the B. & O. for several years and has faithfully performed his duties up until about a month ago when he became ill.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McSpadden and daughter, Sadie, and granddaughter, Luciel, will leave Rockwood Monday in their touring car for Atlantic City, N. J. They will also visit many places of interest along the route. The battlefield of Gettysburg will be among the points of interest.

Miss Julia Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gardner of Shade Lane, is visiting her sister, Mrs. M. R. Brennen of Bedford street, Johnstown, for several days.

Miss Edna Kimmel has accepted a position as clerk in the fruit store of P. Pucci, the position formerly occupied by Miss Hattie Baker.

Fred Swanson, son of John H. Swanson of the Swanson Brothers Western Maryland contractors has returned to Rockwood after spending several days visiting friends and relatives at his former home in Massillon O.

CONNELLSVILLE'S INTEREST IN WEST PENN EXPANSION.

The purchase by the West Penn Railways Company of the electric light and power plants and franchises in Waynesburg, Washington and Canonsburg and intervening points indicates a purpose on the part of the Connellsville coke region trolley system to extend its lines into Greene and Washington counties.

The growth of the West Penn trolley system has been rapid and enormous. Starting with a couple of small local lines in Connellsville and one in Uniontown, it has spread all over the Connellsville coke regions from Greensburg, through Mount Pleasant, Scottdale, Connellsville, Dunbar and Uniontown, to Brownsville, Masontown and Point Marion on the Monongahela river. It is now preparing to cross that stream and invade Greene and Washington counties, following closely upon the coal and coke developments there and largely anticipating their future growth.

The West Penn trolley system has been in some sense a rival of the railroads, but like all other trolley systems it is the result of evolution Electricity made the trolley possible. The old traction cars were impractic able save in urban communities. The railroads now recognize the fact that they must work in harmony with their new rivals and divide the field with them.

It is possible that no matter how large the West Penn sells Connellsville will always be its chief power center, and to a large extent its traffic center. Connellsville is a natural center for many things, and it cannot be sidetracked by the industrious efforts of less fortunately situated neighbors.

THE MORAL OF THE EDNA MINE FATALTY.

The accident at the Edna mine in Westmoreland county by which one man lost his life and two others were injured, one seriously, was due to a direct violation of the rules of the company by smoking a cigarette in or near the entrance of the mine.

This rule of the company is also a law of the land, and these laws are made for the primary purpose of protecting the lives of the miners and reducing to a minimum the hazardous character of their employment, yet as in this case the great majority of mining accidents are traceable to violations of the mining code on the part of careless, indifferent, over confident miners.

It has of recent years been the policy of the mining officials and the administrators of the law to press all such charges vigorously and to insist upon such punishment as would impress upon the minds of the miners that the law must be obeyed

The transgressor of the law in the present case will not be tried. He is dead He was the victim of his own criminal act. He was his own executioner.

ECONOMICAL QUESTIONS AND LOGICAL CONCLUSIONS.

The Farmers' Club of Fayette County will discuss the question, "How to Cut Down Expenses?"

It is right and proper to economize, but the High Cost of Living should not disturb the farmer half so much as it does the consumer of farm products which are undoubtedly the chief factor in the cost of modern living.

Some of the questions the urban population would like to be enlightened on are:

How to cut down the cost of the pumpkin pie that mother used to make?

How to reduce the cost of corn on the cob?

How to beat down the price of beets?

How to pound down the hominy rates?

How to batter from its high estate the price of butter?

How to make hens lay cheaper eggs?

Let's follow this economical question to its logical conclusion.

EFFORTS TO REDUCE THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

"What's the matter with Kansas?"

One thing that is the matter with her, according to the reports of her State Pure Food Department, is the cupidity and credulity of her people. It seems that they have invested money in patent contrivances and compounds guaranteed to make in ten minutes two pounds of perfectly good butter out of one; to make pure apple cider vinegar at an actual cost of four cents per gallon, using one apple to each gallon; to make apple-butter out of one apple to the gallon of butter, at a cost of one-fourth the real article; to make three gallons of maple syrup out of one-half a gallon of the real stuff; to make artificial honey out of cane syrup, honey that only experts can detect.

Hopeful Kansas may not succeed through these economical methods in materially reducing the High Cost of Living, but she will have the Somerset County Butter Merger beaten to a frazzle.

The News advances the theory that a toy telegraph was responsible for the lightning stroke which killed a Connellsville man last Friday. If a toy telegraph is capable of "drawing" such a lightning bolt, it's a wonder half the town wasn't struck. There's electricity enough over it.

Malicious Paperism.

By Isaacs of Yukon.

Abel and Cain were the first competitors in journalism They lived and operated in a third class city outside the Garden of Eden When the Commissioners of Forbidden Fruit county had a lot of legal advertising that needed ventilating in the papers, Abel and Cain tried to butt each other off the map Sometimes they locked horns in the alley behind the Forbidden Fruit county court house, but on cold days and rainy weather they could not do themselves justice in the alley without having their shirt fronts decorated with the surcease of the constable, they flew to work and stabbed each other with direct current editorials. As the R. F. D. service was poor those days and as boys were too lazy to sell papers, the readers called around as soon as they heard the old Washington press screech to see what the editors were doing to each other by way of printer's ink.

Trouble of this kind lasted for several hundred years Any editor can have an idea of the amount of ink and paper that was used in the malicious paperism during this period. An end came one day in August, thusly: Able sent the second "devil" around to the Forbidden Fruit court house with a story to tell the Commissioners that he the boy, was Editor Cain's "devil" and they should give him the copy for an ad for the proposed concrete bridge over the Jordan at Evergreen Shore ferry. The boy got the ad and Abel ran it in his "Tree of Life Journal."

When Cain saw how he had been treated he grabbed off the lever of his old Washington press and went over to the Tree of Life office and waited until Abel went to supper. Abel suspected trouble and he went out of the door with his shotgun cocked and pointed toward the danger zone Cain made a pass at him with his club. Abel pulled the trigger but the gun missed fire He then tried to stab him with the ramrod. Cain was too quick for him and the result of the duel is recorded in the Book of Genesis Your Sunday School Superintendent can tell you more about it. Ask him If he can't tell you, ask your preacher.

William Jennings Pharaoh was editor of "The Nile Valley Sphinx." His paper had a good circulation and it controlled the Ramesis county printing. Moses saw there was money in the paper business and so he established the "Daily Manna." His paper had such a miraculous growth that Pharaoh started after him. When he found he could not smoke him out by cutting ad rates he went after him with his office deputies. Moses took to the Red Sea with Pharaoh following at his heels Moses was the better swimmer and just as he touched sand on the eastern shore he looked around and saw his competitor struggling with cramp and sinking.

Moses bought an old outfit, placed it on a wheelbarrow and had his "devil" wheel it through the Wilderness. His paper was the only one that had a full account of the "Sinking of Pharaoh." For more data ask the $00 per month paid church janitor. He may know.

Caesar, Cassius and Brutus owned and "run" their papers under a kind of interlocking, tristate system For years they worked together, but finally their ad men conspired to down each other. Old Caes "got it put all over him "What you can't find out about it in reading William Shakespeare's report of the stabbing of Caesar, you can have it exactly right from a $200 a month High School teacher. Ask him.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

United Press Special.

WASHINGTON, July 10—Did you ever go hobbing for b'obs?

No, this is not a new game nor is it something that is likely to be taken up by all sportsmen, it is merely a little diversion highly and warmly advocated by the Smithsonian Institution, for the conservation of a few natural resources.

There has been so little conversation regarding conservation lately that the Smithsonian evidently thought that the matter needed stirring up, for they have just issued a letter concerning the extermination of the blobs and advocating this extermination as a highly patriotic and an eminently proper pastime

But, before the blobs can possibly be eradicated, the public will have to be told what they are, for it is doubtful if there are many persons, outside of the Smithsonian, who would recognize one if they met it on the street. That it is something live is rather evident from the title of the Institution's letter, "The Extermination of the Blob" but whether the would-be exterminators should tempt it with peanuts, lure it with bird seed or smother it in pop corn is not mentioned.

So, the dictionary being the natural haven of refuge when one desires to find a definition, the "b's" are searched until the word "blob is reached But even then a look of wonderment and astonishment is likely to settle on the searcher's face, for the definition there is vague and wonderful

It is almost enough to produce a parody on Oliver Herford such as the following:

"I've never met a blibby blob,
I never hope to meet one,
But this I know, I hope, I trow,
I'd rather meet than eat one."

Here is Webster's definition, lifted bodily:

"Blob—Something blunt or round, a small drop or lump of something viscid, a drop, a bubble, a blister A small fresh water fish (Uranidea Robinsoni), the miller's thumb

So there is very little use to dope out from the dictionary exactly what is a blob. There is no escape from it, the Institution's letter must be read. A study of the learned dissertation shows that the next to the last bet in the dictionary is the right one to play and that the blob spoken about in the article in question is a fish which has the pernicious habit of swallowing several salmon for breakfast, a few more for lunch and adding some to the collection when dinner time came around Therefore, says the Institution, they should be exterminated

Bobb, an Ameses Dean and Ward of the Institution, are not particular how they eat their prey. Head or tail first, it is all the same to them, and they eat an average of six a day This for a fish which is some twelve or fifteen inches long, is going some Some of the blobs eat so many salmon that they choke themselves to death and the Bureau of Fisheries is not troubled with exterminating them When it is noted however, that 31,000 of the pernicious blobs were caught and killed in twenty days on the Helm Bay stream, it would not seem that the Bureau of Fisheries would have much trouble in getting rid of them

But, they say that there is great need for an active movement against the salmon-eaters, so the public is asked to "Swat the blob," just as they are desired to "Swat the fly."

A brand new campaign against the manufacture and sale of patent medicines is being planned by Dr Harvey W. Wiley chief of the Bureau of Chemistry

"It is my firm belief," said the watchdog of the public health today, "that many thousands of Americans are now suffering from 'incurable' diseases who might have been healthy had they used the proper medicines when the disease was in its infancy But they relied on the advice of quacks and consumed large quantities of nostrums which, while they might not have harmed them, still did them no good at all.

"I consider that patent medicines are the curse of this country and I am going to take the matter up with Congress in an effort to effect the passage of a bill which will provide that all manufacturers of patent drugs must have a pharmacist's certificate and that all persons who sell or prescribe those must be possessed of a doctor's degree valid in the place where they operate I think this will put an end to the illicit business of promiscuous patent medicine selling and save many thousands of persons from becoming slaves to the habit"

Calculations just made by the United States Office of Public Roads show that a saving of between half a billion and a billion dollars a year can be effected if the States would improve twenty per cent of the roads now in operation.

The Public Roads Office estimates that this improvement would cost each State about $4,000,000, but that the tremendous yearly saving would more than make up for any expenditure of this kind. Appeals will be sent out to each State asking that the legislatures take steps toward the improvement of roads.

SCOTTDALE WILL HAVE SOCIAL DAY.

The Chamber of Commerce Turns Down Picnic Proposition

OF GOING AWAY FROM HOME

Y. M. C. A. Supper Tonight to the Soliciting Teams for That $50,000. Sunday Superlatively Hot—Storm Was Great For Small Damage.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, July 10.—So far as the Chamber of Commerce is concerned there will be no picnic out of town this year for Scottdale. The matter has been talked of for some weeks and so many different parks were suggested that finally the committee wondered how the folks would like to have their picnic at home one year. With the picnic might be sports, the main drawing card to be an aviator to do some plain and fancy flying over the borough. Other events of interest could be had. The merchants, it was suggested, might have a bargain day or two or three of them, and advertise widely which would be another event to bring people in. The Chamber of Commerce in their meeting decided on not having a picnic away from home and then decided that the Chamber of Commerce should not have the one to be held here. They are going to leave it up to the town in general.

Y. M. C. A. Active.

There will be another luncheon served at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening at 6 o'clock to the members of the teams that have been soliciting for the $50,000 building fund, and which are taking the long, hard pull to bring up the last few thousand. The meeting tonight will decide what is next to be done, and will likely result in something strenuous. At the union meetings last night the subject was touched upon in live manner. The friends of the project are very hopeful and confident that the sum will be brought up.

A Lot of Trouble.

The West Penn has just about completed the repair of all the damages wrought by the widespread electric storm of Friday afternoon, which was the cause of what is said to be the largest number of fuses burning out and lights being off since the West Penn has been in operation in Scottdale. There was strangely enough no great damage beyond the fuses burning out, and from a money standpoint the damage was very small. But it entailed upon all the electric employes a vast amount of small work.

Poison Victims Home.

Mrs. Mansell, wife of Rev. R. B. Mansell, D. D., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, accompanied by their two little daughters, Helen and Martha, arrived home from Irwin on Saturday. They were visiting there over the Fourth of July and were among the 21 people who were poisoned while at the dinner at the Thomas Painter farm that day. Mrs. Mansell was the first to be taken ill and sent for a doctor and by the time Dr. R. P. McClellan got to the scene he found 21 ill. Edmund Painter, son of T. E. Painter, was so ill he had to be carried to the home. There were 27 persons in the party and only half a dozen escaped the wholesale ptomaine poisoning. Just what it was that they ate that caused the trouble is not known. The most of the victims were able to be about on Wednesday. Rev. Dr. Mansell was at Beaver Falls and Pittsburg.

To Teach Class.

Teacher Robert Wiley of the Men's Bible Class of the First Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, has asked Dr. O. I. Hess to teach the class on next Sunday morning, which the doctor has consented to do.

Editorial Picnic.

The Westmoreland County Press Association will be the guests of the West Penn Railways Company and the Oakford Park management for the annual picnic next Friday. The party will assemble at Greensburg in the morning and be taken by special car to Connellsville where the big power plant will be visited. From there the run to Uniontown will be made where lunch will be served. Returning to Oakford Park the party will take supper at that place. The members of the association in Scottdale are J. Howard Cramer of The Observer, and A. L. Porter, of the Independent, who is one of the picnic committee.

Streets Graded.

Grant street, Stoner street and Chestnut street are all about graded and ready for he last touches before the putting down of the ash and sand beds preparatory to laying the paving. The Chestnut street hill and Fourth avenue will next be taken up, although it is likely the three downtown streets will be paved first. It is desired that the Chestnut street hill be completed before the school term opens in order that the several hundred pupils may have a decent means of getting to and from the High school and the Chestnut street school.

Sunday Was Hot.

Sunday was another superlatively hot day and church going suffered some from this apparently. However, the autos were running busily the most of the day and evening. The union services were inaugurated at the United Brethren and United Evangelical church with Rev. R. B. Mansell, the Methodist Episcopal minister, and Rev. J. E. Hutchison, the Presbyterian pastor, the preachers at the two places. These services will last all through this month and August. A good sized congregation was at each church last evening. The music of the evening is in charge of the choir in whose church the service is held. Familiar gospel hymns will be sung by the congregations at all these meetings.

No Excuse for Feeling Run Down

There is no excuse for being all "run down." If you feel tired most of the time with a poor appetite and bad digestion, you are debilitated and nature needs some assistance in throwing off this condition.

"Tona Vita" the modern tonic, is a sure means of overcoming this trouble. Many thousands of half sick, listless, vitality and energy, have actually been made over by this splendid medicine.

"Tona Vita" was only recently introduced in this country, yet the sale of it is now tremendous and still growing. It is certain no medicine could be so successful unless it was accomplishing remarkable results. "Tona Vita" is accomplishing remarkable results. It overcomes nervous debility in a few weeks time, and brings back the old energetic spirit that is lacking.

It brings restful sleep, good digestion, more vitality and drives away the listless, despondent feeling so quickly that it will positively astonish you. Don't drag around half sick any longer.

There is an agent in every city, who will return the purchase price to you if the tonic fails to completely build you up.

Leo's Rhubarb Laxative is the assistant remedy to be used with Tona Vita in cases of chronic constipation. This medicine contains the splendid medicinal virtues of rhubarb, the finest of all natural laxatives. Harsh drugs strain the intestines while rhubarb, equally effective, has a tonic effect on the entire bowel tract. Leo's Rhubarb Laxative is an ideal family medicine and should be used in preference to any other laxative for children. The taste is very pleasnt.

Tona Vita and Leo's Rhubarb Laxative are sold in Connellsville by A. A. Clark.

Grading on Western Maryland

Construction work on the Connellsville extension of the Western Maryland railway is progressing very satisfactorily to the officials of that company. The Carter Construction Company is straining every effort to complete its contract for the building of the whole line ahead of the agreed upon time, with the prospects excellent that trains will be running from Baltimore through to Pittsburg before the 1st of next November.

Over 85 per cent of the grading on the new line was completed up to July 1, and when it is remembered that no grading was done until less than a year ago the energy displayed by the contractors will be appreciated. There was an enormous amount of concreteing for bridge abutments, culverts, and the like necessary, and 96 per cent of this work is completed. Over 13,000 tons of structural steel will be used on the line, principally for bridges, and the bulk of this has been fabricated at the mills and shipments of the material are under way, some of the bridges having already been equipped with their superstructures.

All of the isolated rights of way which caused the company more or less trouble have been cleared up, and the route of the new line is in the undisputed possession of the Western Maryland from end to end. Connections with the Baltimore & Ohio have been physically completed at Keystone, Confluence and Chicopyto, and about one and three-quarter miles of track has been laid out of Cumberland.

There are 4,500 men employed on the various sections of the line at present, while 30 steam shovels are still digging out material, which is being hauled away by 75 "dinkey" engines.

NURSES GRADUATE.

Commencement Exercises Held at Uniontown in Presbyterian Church.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 10.—(Special.)—The commencement exercises of the class of 1911 of the Training School for Nurses at the Uniontown Hospital were held in the First Presbyterian Church, with Dr. George W. Neff of Masontown as the speaker. Following the exercises there was a reception and dance at the Laurel Club, given by the trustees in honor of the eight nurses. Receiving were: Mrs. James Clark Work, President of the Hospital Association; Miss Grace Brumbaugh, Superintendent, and Miss W. H. McClave, matron, of the hospital corps.

In the class were Ritchie Clair Hall, Alice Goode Boyd, Jennie B. Sloan, Mary A. Litsinger, Sarah Crider, Nora Ellen Hayes, Ethel J. Jarvis and A. Elaine DeWitte.

To the Public.

On account of extensive improvements being carried on, the Arcade theatre will be closed until Saturday, July 15, opening with the finest line of attractions ever seen in this city.

JAMES R. KEENE VERY LOW IN LONDON.

JAMES R. KEENE

LONDON, July 10.—James R. Keene the millionaire stock speculator and financier, is dangerously ill at the Carlton hotel here after a trip to Italy. His mind is affected, according to reports, as the result of old age. Mr. Keene is 73 years old.

Wage Raise for Rural Carriers

The 40,000 odd rural free delivery carriers in the United States are to receive salary increases as a result of a decision reached Saturday by Postmaster General Hitchcock. The order will provide for the disbursement during the current fiscal year of $4,000,000, which will mean an increase of $100 over the present salary of $900 for all carriers on standard routes, with proportionate increases on the shorter routes.

Congress provided last session for the expenditure of this extra $4,000,000, but left it to the discretion of the postmaster general as to how much of it should be expended. Mr. Hitchcock decided Saturday to authorize the expenditure of the full amount. His desire to compensate the carriers for any additional burden which may be placed on them if the parcel post system he has recommended for rural routes is approved by Congress, was the important consideration, Mr. Hitchcock declared which led him to make the authorization.

"Now that the men are to receive such generous increase in pay," he said, "I feel that Congress should lose no time in authorizing the carrying of parcels on rural routes. A parcel post system on rural routes can be conducted without any extra expense to the government than the $4,000,000 salary increase, which, in my judgment, would be more than offset by the parcel post revenue."

Powder Dispute Kills and Maims

Vendring Goolish is dead and John Somenick is in a Pittsburg hospital, frightfully burned, as a result of the explosion of a keg of powder at house No. 54, at the Edna No. 2 mine of the Pittsburg & Baltimore Coal Company, Saturday evening.

Goolish and Somenick is seems, had bought the powder in partnership and took it onto the porch of house No. 54 to divide it. Two piles were made about four feet apart. A little of the powder was left in the keg. This residue was scraped out and placed in a pile between the two larger heaps. Then, either in a spirit of fun, or to test the burning qualities of the powder, the middle pile was touched off with a match. Sparks from the small heap leaped across to the larger piles and the whole of the keg went up in a flash. The men were enveloped by the flames and terribly burned. Goolish's clothing was practically burned from his body.

The porch of the building was not afire, but the blaze was extinguished before heavy damage could result. Goolish and Somerick were hurried to a Pittsburg hospital, where the former died Sunday. Both of the men were Horwats. Neither was married. Goolish was 28 years old and Somerick 24.

COLD MEAT SUPPER

Held by Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church held a very successful cold meat supper Saturday evening in the church. The supper was well arranged. Different kinds of cold meats, salads, baked beans, pickles, jellies, ice cream, pineapple ice, cake and coffee were served.

The hours were from 5 until after 9 o'clock. During that time the young ladies in charge of the different tables were kept busy serving. A nice sum was realized from the home-made candy table.

MT. PLEASANT.

MT. PLEASANT, July 10.—On Saturday Mrs. Anna Stevenson of Laurelville was coming to town, just this side the tollgate at the East End of town the horse became frightened at an automobile and started to run off down Main street. The buggy was upset and broken, the woman thrown out and dragged along the street, one arm was broken and scratched. She was taken to the Memorial hospital.

Marion Fox and John Ramsey left for Atlantic City to represent the local Elks at the convention there.

Miss Nilda Giles has gone to Grove City to take a six weeks' course at Grove City College.

George and Pauline Vanderbilt gave a very creditable performance at the Lyric theatre Saturday night.

Fred Milber and daughters, Misses Gail and Helen, have returned to their home at Chambersburg after a visit paid the former's mother, Mrs. Lavina Milber of Church street.

The four managers of the Second Division of the H. C. Frick baseball league will hold a meeting at the Kellar Hotel on Tuesday evening to arrange a schedule for the remaining part of the season. So far the schedule has not been followed and half the games were never played. The officers of the league feel that something must be done to have this run on a business basis.

Mrs. William Smith and daughters, Misses Jean and Sara, are the guests of friends at Connemaugh.

William Smith entertained the following members of the Eat-a-Bite Club at their annual dinner at his Smithfield street home. Those present were H. J. Jordan, Frank Keogh, Bob Goodman, Will Snyder, M. A. King, Dick Donecaster, Low Gibbs, Harry Morrison, Milton George and Jesse Mullin. The day passed off with nothing unusual only poor Robert Goodman has not gotten over the dirty way he was treated about the cooking. For years Robert has been cook and when placed to assistant cook, Robert wheezed, but went and did his duty. But yesterday when he was ruled out altogether just because his chin leaked it took the biggest part of the day to console him.

Mrs. J. C. McClellan of Indiana, Pa., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. I. R. Smith.

Misses Charlotte and Anna Bell Benford are the guests of their aunt, Mrs. Frank Reymer of Greensburg.

The Keystones Win at Morewood

Special to The Courier.

MT. PLEASANT, July 10.—The Scottdale Keystones defeated the strong Morewood team Saturday 8 to 2. Gatewood, the strong colored pitcher for Morewood, had things all his own way until the sixth when the Keystones pounded him all over the lot for seven runs and seven hits. He was taken out and Graft took his place. Clerk was effective with his catching, having only one stolen base and got three hits. Echard had five putouts which were hard to judge on account of the sun.

The Keystones play Bryce Brothers next Saturday at Loucks park, Scottdale. Game called at 3 P. M. They defeated the Bryce Brothers two weeks ago at Mt. Pleasant.

Morgan Loses to the Car Shops

The Car Shops won from Morgan on Saturday. The score was 10 to 1. Car Shops hit the ball hard in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings which coupled with errors by Morgan netted nine tallies in all. Morgan was in poor shape from the Trauger games on the Fourth, but gamely played a game which was scheduled without knowledge of the team, it is stated. The Car Shops team is now rounding into the form that made it about the best team in the coke region last season.

Wheeler Won From Trotter Boys

The Trotter second team and Wheeler layed a nine inning game on Saturday evening at Trotter. Wheeler won 7 to 0. This Wheeler team by the way has been playing a fine game during the present season, and within a season or two, if the boys who make up its lineup now keep at the game, some names that now grace its box scores will be found in fast company. Grenoldo played third Saturday and took care of everything that came his way in nice style.

BANNING WINNER

Over the Buena Vista Team, Score 6 to 1.

Banning defeated the Buena Vista baseball team on the Buena Vista grounds Saturday afternoon in a very much one sided six inning game. The score was 6-1. Buena Vista's only score being made on a misjudged ball. Sonibb pitched four innings for Buena Vista, being so wild that he hit five men and passed three while on the slab. Burns pitched for Banning allowing Buena Vista four hits. Score by innings:

Scorer John Vlazanko of United inquires the proper manner to credit putouts for runners hit by batted ball and batsmen called out for crossing from one box to the other. Use the asterisk on the total putouts in both cases, a snot credit is given any player for the putout in these cases. Some scorers credit the catcher with the put out when batters step from one box to another but this is left to individual judgment.

COALBROOK LOSES

Another Game to the Fast Nine From Pennsville.

The Pennsville Stars defeated Coalbrook in a loosely played game Saturday on the latter's grounds by a score of 13 to 6. Pennsville took the lead in the first inning by getting a couple of bingles off of the Coalbrook pitcher and scoring four runs. They tallied every inning after that but one. Coalbrook had the bases full twice and no outs, but could not score. Pennsville's pitcher held them down to four hits. Pennsville got 20 hits.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Herrington who struck out three of the heaviest Coalbrook batters in one inning, and a sensational catch in the ninth by Fazenbaker for Pennsville.

Pennsville and Coalbrook have played four games and Pennsville has won three of them. Pennsville is looking for games from any team. Address Thomas Fazenbaker, Pennsville, Pa.

CHAPTER XVI.

THE CHAMELEON'S DODGE.

MY amazement and disappointment for a moment unnerved me. I glanced up and down on all sides, but not a thing was visible except the clouds, the blue sky and the green earth. I stopped the motors, and for a few minutes we hung there, debating what to do. For the first time in his life perhaps, for he was not a profane man, the secretary muttered "D——!"

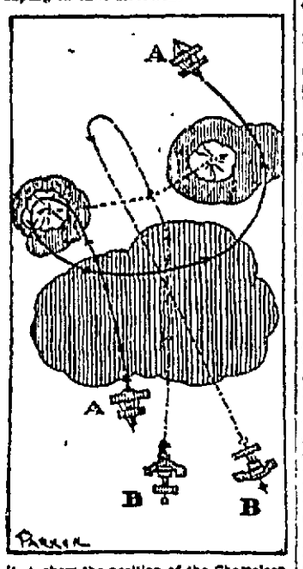

"Lootenant," said Ethan at last, "I know what he's done—he's turned inside the cloud!"

The truth at once flashed upon us. There was no doubt about it—he had tricked us again!

"Curse him!" I exclaimed. "He shall never get away. Reverse the course and then full speed ahead."

It was at least a year since I had seen the picture of Helen Grayman in the Sunday paper, but now her face rose before me as clearly as if she had stood there—those large, beautiful eyes; that open, frank, winning countenance. I felt that it was my chase, and I forgot everything except that I must save her.

Which of the two clouds had the Chameleon used as a cover? I determined to run back straight between the two and straight through the third, larger cloud, which we had already traversed, hoping to find Payton escaping in that direction.

A A show the position of the Chameleon, first when we saw her enter the cloud and, second, after her escape. The long closed line, curving around and through the clouds, indicates the path that she followed. B B show the positions of the Osprey at the beginning and the end of this strange battle, and the dotted line indicates the course that she pursued. Short dotted lines, leading to each of the smaller clouds, show our shell fire, and it is evident that we narrowly missed the Chameleon, which must have been close to the point where the second shell exploded.)

In order to make clear the situation as it had now developed I must ask the reader's attention to the diagram above.

By the time that we had got out into the open beyond the two small clouds Payton had completed his turn and re-entered the large cloud. Keeping to the left as soon as he was within it, he ran nearly its whole length and finally emerged, only to dodge behind the other small cloud.

He was evidently a master of strategy.

Here he ran the only serious risk of discovery during the entire maneuver, for if we had returned more promptly we might have been just in time to catch sight of him as he passed the opening between the clouds.

But we were too late, and while the Osprey was dashing headlong on her return through the large cloud the Chameleon rounded the small one and was off at full speed in exactly the opposite direction. No sooner was the air clear of vapor than we looked about with all eyes and were met by the same disappointment. The Chameleon was not there.

"Perhaps one of your shells found him," suggested Mr. Grantham, "and broke him up so that he has dropped to the ground unperceived."

It was a startling possibility, and I gave orders to drop down within 100 feet of the ground. Running back, we began to use the utmost circumspection in examining the surface beneath us. It was mostly level and covered with irregular growths of trees and brush, with interspaces of grassy land. We may have spent half an hour in this search when the penetrating eyes of Ethan Ifsight discovered a new surprise for us.

"Lootenant, lootenant!" he called out. "There he is again!"

I glanced hastily at Ethan. He was pointing south southwest, his hand raised above the level of his eyes. I looked, and we all looked, but could see nothing. Still Ethan insisted:

"Jest ag'in thet cloud with a head on it. It's him as sure as preachin'."

In a few moments I had the object located, a moving speck against the cloud, and set out instantly in pursuit.

I could recall well enough the relative situation and dimensions of the clouds to see that he had timed his movements to mine, which he must have foreseen with Napoleonic penetration, so that his moments of entering and leaving the clouds and of crossing the interspaces would be still as to keep him always concealed from us behind a curtain of vapor. He must have forecast with absolute assurance our final dart backward, which simply superadded our speed to his in widening the distance between us.

It was a bitter dose for me, but I swallowed it and fixed my mind with redoubled resolution upon the rescue of Helen Grayman.

Mr. Grantham noticed my chagrin and kindly said:

"No matter, Allan. He's yours yet. I caused you to waste half an hour by my useless suggestion. Now go ahead, and I promise to be guilty of no more stupid interference."

"It's not your fault at all, Mr. Grantham," I replied warmly. "I should have done what I did if you had not spoken."

The secretary gave me a pressure of the hand, and I felt greatly encouraged, for I knew I should have his support however the thing turned out. So I visited Jim and incited him to renewed efforts.

"Get her up to a hundred and forty," I said. "We've another and a last chance."

"I'll do it or bust her," he grimly replied.

We did go at an astonishing speed, and no long time elapsed before our gain was so great that I told Ethan to be ready.

"Shells this time," I said. "We'll not begin to fight until we are within easy range, and I want you to pelt him without mercy. Only," I added, "aim for the aeroplanes and save the hull. The Chameleon carries the richest girl in the world, and we've got her father aboard here."

"I'm not a-goin' to tech a hair o' her head, lootenant," replied Ethan, with, I thought, a knowing grin. "I've been to the show in my day, an' I know all about Romeo an' his Jooliett."

I felt my face burn and turned away. This practical minded Yankee evidently had his romantic side, too, and had penetrated a secret of which I did not dare to think myself.

I do not believe that the Chameleon was now making more than a hundred and thirty-five at the most, and in a couple of hours we had her almost within range. As we drew nearer Payton evidently saw that the game was up and that his only course was to fight.

He ran up his black flag and dressed his flier from stem to stern in the same color, the stamping her silhouette with startling distinctness against the rising clouds beyond and giving her an aspect so fierce and menacing that I saw some of my men regarding her and one another with doubtful looks and shrugs.

I called to Jim to pile on the speed once more and to Ethan to follow the range and announce it to me every half minute.

"Four mile!" he presently sung out—"three mile an' a half"—

Before he called again a vast smoke bellied cloud which had been piling its golden pagodas up into the sunshine above seemed to make a sudden rush all along its front and at the same time crinkled with lightning. In an astonishingly brief time its advance had reached the Chameleon, while flanking vapors ran out like a charge of cavalry and began to envelop us.

The sweep of the storm was so sudden and swift that almost in a moment the Chameleon vanished, and then the Osprey was swallowed up with darkness, illuminated now and then by venomous lightning-bolts.

The thunder growled and rattled all about us, and the aero lunged and pitched so dangerously that I advised Mr. Grayman and the secretary to take refuge in the cabin. My men managed the flier superbly, and in a few minutes the storm passed, and we found ourselves in a valley of cloud-land — blue sky overhead, thunder-clouds piled like vast rocks all around and the earth beneath hidden with dark nimbus.

Beyond the nearer clouds the vapor peaks rose glittering in the sunshine like snow clad mountains.

Then I caught sight of the Chameleon, also inclosed in a cloud walled valley, not more than a quarter of a mile off. Gigantic in the magnifying mist, she was just pushing out of the cloud, her great aeroplanes looking as funereal as mighty palls and her black flag whipping in the wind.

She was broadside to, and Payton's eye had been as quick as mine. His action was quicker.

Hardly five seconds had elapsed from the moment that we caught sight of one another when both his guns spit their blue flashes, and the shells screamed so close that I wondered at our escape. I yelled an order to the steersman to bring our bow in line with the Chameleon, meaning to run her down, but before we had swung into the desired position she fired twice again and once more narrowly missed her aim.

Ethan was ready now, and the word "Fire!" had hardly left my lips before his gun responded and knocked one of Payton's aeroplanes into a shapeless, fluttering mass. His second shell burst aboard her, sending my heart into my throat in the fear that it had killed half the people she carried.

"Careful, Ethan!" I shouted. "Remember the prisoners!"

"All right, lootenant," he replied; "but, blast him, he's fooled us long enough!"

Before either side could fire again, the Chameleon was once more swallowed from sight by boiling, sulphur tinted vapors, and, as before, the Osprey, too, was immediately involved in the second rush of the storm. This time the glare of the lightning and the vicious raps of thunder were almost incessant. We had all we could do to retain an upright position on the pitching and swaying deck. Yet again the storm passed quickly, leaving us in another blue domed and vapor bottomed atmospheric valley among the flashing thunder heads. And there still was the Chameleon, like a black demon of the air, awaiting us.

The battle was instantly resumed with greater impetuosity than before, as if the electric fury of the tempest had entered into our blood.

Still Payton presented his broadside, circling to keep out of reach, while I endeavored to close, and Ethan peppered him with the bow gun.

Having two guns in action to our one, Payton pumped the shells into us with a caution, but his aim was wild compared with Ethan's superb gunnery. Still, they managed to cut up our rigging, tore a few holes in our deck and finally sent a shell aboard us that wounded two men and knocked over Mr. Grayman, who, with the secretary, had insisted upon remaining on deck, with a flying splinter.

Mr. Grantham ran to his aid, and I sent a man to help carry him into the cabin.

Whish! Whish! Rattle! Crack! went the sounds of the guns and the exploding shells, mingled at times with the deep growls of thunder from the encircling clouds, which menaced another rush, as if we in turn had stimulated them to renewed violence. But they held off while the fight to a finish between the Chameleon and the Osprey went on.

Presently one of our aeroplanes was knocked endwise; then our steering machinery was damaged. The latter injury caused us to swing round so that our stern gun also came into play, and the gunner, Eaton—a good man, too—incited by Ethan's splendid work and eager to take his share in it, began to fire without orders. Of course I let him go on, and the battle became fiercer than ever. Payton sent us some more smashers, and I felt by the staggering of the Osprey that she was mortally injured; but, after all, that did not greatly trouble me, since it was plain that the Chameleon was in a far worse plight.

Ethan was a sight to make one's nerves tingle. His eyes flashed, his strong arms worked with the precision of walking beams, and the perspiration streamed from his face.

"Bully for you, Ethan!" I shouted enthusiastically. "You've kept your word. The Chameleon will never fly again."

"The blasted turncoat!" he replied, again sighting his gun. "I knowed I'd put an end to her cavortin's. Change yer color ag'in, will ye, ye blasted grasshopper! Scoot inter a cloud ag'in if ye kin, durn ye!"

Ethan had but just uttered these words when a shell whizzed aboard, exploded under his gun and sent it flying, end over end, down into the scudding clouds beneath us. Ethan was toppled over, but immediately sprang to his feet, a trickle of blood running down his cheek, braced himself and stared.

I never saw on a mortal's face such a look of blank astonishment and chagrin. For a minute he could not speak. Then he found his tongue and uttered but a single word:

PUTTING MY PISTOL IN MY TEETH, I SPRANG OUT.

"Gosh a'mighty!"

In spite of the excitement I burst into a roar of laughter.

"Never mind, Ethan," I said. "You have finished the Chameleon."

And so, indeed, he had. Payton's famous flier was knocked all out of shape. I wondered how she kept afloat. As she could not get away and had manifestly fired her last shot, I ordered Eaton also to cease firing.

The last shot of the Chameleon's, which gave her her revenge on the gun that had put an end to her career, was fired, as we learned afterward, by Payton himself.

The victory was ours, although the Osprey was not in a much better condition than her conquered antagonist.

Suddenly, while I hesitated about my next step, a parachute dropped from the Chameleon.

"Good heaven, Allan!" cried the secretary, who had returned to my side after finding that Mr. Grayman's injury was trifling. "Payton is escaping. If he gets safe to the ground the fox will be in his hole again."

"He shall never get there!" I exclaimed, and at the words I seized the wheel, determined to swing the Osprey around in some way so that she could catch the parachute. The parachute umbrella had opened promptly, and it was descending in long swings. In a few moments we were almost upon it, but I saw that we should pass a little to one side and above it. There was but one chance. Putting my pistol in my teeth, I sprang out with both arms wide abroad. Luckily I succeeded in grasping a rope of the parachute as I shot downward. The Osprey rushed on, and I was left suspended in midair, the parachute lurching and gyrating with my added and misplaced weight.

I had heard a shout of dismay from Mr. Grantham as I plunged overboard, but the instant I felt the rope in my fingers I had no fear.

I had taken my resolution that Alfonso Payton should not escape, and I meant to kill him.

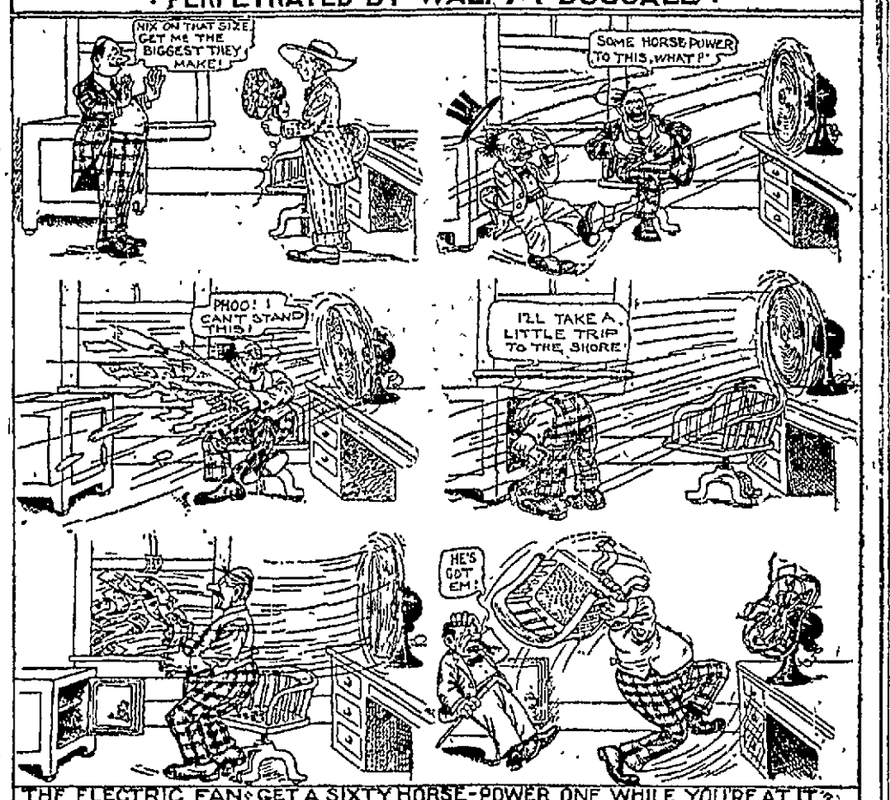

I slipped down the rope sailorwise, seizing my pistol from my teeth as I landed in a heap in the basket. Instantly recovering my feet, I swung round furiously to face Payton and finish him.

But my raised pistol dropped from my hand, for, looking straight into my eyes with pale, scared face, I saw—Helen Grayman.

THE HALL OF FAME.

WILLIAM TECUMSEH SHERMAN—Civil war general. Born Lancaster, O., Feb. 8, 1820; died New York Feb. 14, 1891. Graduated from West Point in 1840. Stationed in California during the Mexican war. Commanded a brigade at first Bull Run. Had three horses shot under him and was severely wounded at Shiloh, but was thanked by Grant for having saved the day. Assisted in the campaign at Vicksburg and in Grant's other operations in the west. When Grant was placed in command of all the armies he put Sherman at the head of the Army of the Mississippi. Pushed on to Atlanta in several hard fought battles and then made his famous march to the sea. He then swung northward through the Carolinas and compelled the surrender of Johnston. Was made general of the army when Grant became president.

Visitors' Day in Mohican Camp

Special to The Courier.

CAMP MOHICAN, July 10.—Although not designated as "visitors' day" the Y. M. C. A. boys in camp at Rogers Mills were glad to entertain seven of their friends yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Keaggy and daughter, Mary, Mrs. J. B. Ruth and Miss Ethel Ruth and Mrs. Josephine McConnell and daughter, Mary, came loaded with all sorts of good things to eat, including six water melons, biscuits, cookies, cakes, slaw, jelly and several kinds of pickles, beside three large meat loaves and cheese and crackers. It was a great treat to all and the way the things disappeared at the dinner table was sufficient proof that the boys like that kind of a visitors day, even though not officially known as such.

Nearly every day the boys go fishing and the largest catch so far is 19, made by Clifton Crowley.

Tomorrow afternoon the boys expect to play a game of baseball with a nine from Springfield.

One of the camp yells is "M-O-H-I-G-A-N. Where the boys eat all they can. When we are through, we all will yell. Camp Mohigian, Well, Well Well.

One of the hardest rain storms of the season visited us this afternoon, but no one got wet and the tents were all dry. The creek has raised two feet all ready and the boys are delighted.

CAMP MOHICAN, Rogers Mills, July 9.—Scout Master Kilbourne had a new game for us Saturday. He wrote seven letters and then hid them. The first one was to be found on a tree, within 200 feet of the camp, and each letter gave the approximate location of the succeeding one. After breakfast the boys started out on a hunt and Walter Morton found letter No. 1 nailed to a tree that was in a clump of bushes near the road. Each of the other letters had some special instructions in them and the last one told him to draw a map of the camp, locating the railroad station, the creek, the coal tipple, etc. As a reward for his work he received a big box of candy.

Right after breakfast Saturday morning we took advantage of the high water in the creek and floated a great lot of old logs and boards down to the camp in preparation for the big bonfire which will take place Wednesday night.

Mr. Joseph McConnell came Saturday night to spend Sunday with us and made us all happy by bringing a big bunch of bananas. We don't need to tell you what we did with them.

Sunday was a quiet day.

The morning train brought eight visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Crowley, Miss Emma Kate Crowley, Miss Ida Bitner, Harry E. Schenck and son, Robert, Fred W. Alguire and Miss Sarah Morse.

Several baskets full of good things to eat were donated to the camp and guests and campers ate dinner together. The menu consisted of bread and butter, boiled potatoes and string beans, fried bacon, beets, doughnuts, cake, water melon, bananas and coffee. We all thought it was the best dinner yet.

The usual religious service was held at 9 o'clock which all the campers and many of the neighboring children attended. Mr. Kilbourne gave a very helpful talk on "Driftwood." The little folding organ was brought into use, presided over by Miss Helen Hood. The singing of the boys and girls sounded fine and the closing piece, "America" was especially well rendered.

The afternoon was spent visiting with the guests and walks in the woods.

Tomorrow we will all have to get busy bringing wood for the big bonfire.

The graphophone is one of the popular things in the camp and the campers and neighbors for quite a distance get the benefit of the music.

A SULTAN'S SEVEN BEDS.

Abdul Hamid Changed His Sleeping Place Every Night.

An interesting reminiscence of Abdul Hamid, the former sultan of Turkey, who was known as Abdul the Accursed and by several other more or less unpleasant titles, is given in the description of a visit to Yildiz Kiosk by Colonel (Count) Gleichen in the Household Brigade Magazine.

"The house was a perfect labyrinth of small rooms," he writes. "In no fewer than seven of these rooms were beds on which the sultan used to sleep—not ordinary beds, but large couches, sloping at a considerable angle from the head end downward, so that, covered with a quilt or two, his majesty could sleep in a semi-upright condition and spring up at a moment's notice to be ready for anything.

"No one knew in which of the seven rooms the sultan was going to sleep, for he changed his resting place every night for fear of hidden dangers. Along the main passage which led past many of these rooms a most ingenious arrangement existed for giving warning of the approach of any one. The floor was composed of loose planks under the carpet, so that merely to walk along it started a clanking sound which must invariably have waked a light and nervous sleeper."

ASTIGMATISM

OF THE EYE.

When an eye is said to be astigmatic, the meaning is that the eye has a double focus. This annoys the brain and the eye will strain unconsciously to bring about a clear focus; this strain usually causes headaches. Astigmatism is usually congenital or so at birth—it is emedied by wearing glasses ground from the segment of a cylinder. These glasses, if rightly made, bring images to a focus on the retina thus relieve all strain. Children as well as adults suffer from astigmatism. I am prepared to correct all common or complicated errors of sight—my examinations are free.

Headaches and nervousness and other troubles far remote from the eye are oftimes the direct result of an eye strain which if corrected with the proper glasses would give immediate relief. It is not necessary for the eye to be sore to indicate the need of glasses. In many cases the eye may be perfectly healthy and glasses may be needed for the reasons which are only apparent to the physician and skilled eye specialist.

SHUR-ON

We say without hesitation or fear of contradiction that Shur-on Eyeglasses add to one's personal appearance, posses the efficiency of spectacles, in that they keep the lens in an optically correct position under all conditions, and insure a degree of comfort many have been lead to believe impossible. They may be put on or taken off with one hand and without soiling the lenses.

To fit SHUR-ON eye-glasses and fit them properly so that they will give the comfort and efficiency desired, require experience and skill. We make a specialty of the proper fitting and adjusting of these eye glasses and for that reason can say unreservedly if you wear SHUR-ON eye-glasses fitted by us, you have eye glasses that give the maximum comfort without any annoyances.

Wear proper glasses and help your eyes.

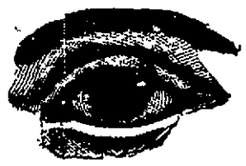

If your work or reading tires your eyes, the right glasses will rest them.

If your eyes feel strained the right glasses will relieve them.

If you can't see as well as you used to, properly fitted glasses will enable you to see clearly and to read easily.

If you are subject to headaches, the chances are that it is caused by eye-strain, which can only be relieved by wearing glasses with special ground lenses to fit your eyes.

But DON'T wear glasses unless prescribed and fitted by a reliable Optometrist or Oculist.

Examination Free

Caution about the Use and Selection of Spectacles

"Persons having normal vision will be able to read this print at a distance of 14 inches from the eye with ease and comfort; also will be able to read it with each eye separately if unable to do so your eyes are defective and should have immediate attention. When the eyes become tired from reading or sewing, or if the lenses look blurred and run together, it is a sure indication that glasses are needed. The lenses sold in the cheap goods are of unequal density and have imperfectly formed surfaces. Continued use of these poorer lenses will result in positive injury from the constant strain upon the muscles "Accommodation" to apply the distance in the glass."

$50 REWARD.

July Clearance---Wright-Metzler's

It's not how little we can lose, but how fine and big the bargains can be made. It's little wonder that so many people turn this clearance occasion to account. Here's an illustration: (Seek details elsewhere on this page.)

One lot Women's Wool Suits, $15.00 to $18.00 values $4.75

One lot Women's Wool Skirts, values to $8.50 ..... $2.98

One lot Men's Suits, formerly priced to $17.50 ..... $8.95

One lot Hats for Men—containing $3.50 values 98c

And on through a great list we could cite values priced without any regard to former cost.

This Sale Starts Wednesd'y July 12

Since last clearance sale we've set a new high mark in selling—and, selling more, we naturally have more leavings. Don't term this with remnants. While you'll find short lengths in all sorts of fabrics, everything else classed as broken sizes, odds and ends, left overs and what not is tagged at a ridiculous figure. These things accumulate where big business is done just as the more apples you pare, the more parings there are. We are glad to sell these remainders at foolishly little prices, though to the purchaser they are as good as a mill-full. Certainly there will be all you require.

The Basement, First Floor, Second Floor and Sixth Floor Have Their Offerings.

Come the first day. Bargains, like rainbows, do not tarry long.

Famous Wright-Metzler Low Shoes in the July Clearance

"W.-M.-Co." Shoes selling at usual prices prevailing elsewhere are 20% better than all others we know of. 20% is about the excess cost tacked onto extensively advertised lines. Here it goes to you. "W.-M.-Co." Shoes are famous—made so by this store's persistent giving of best fit, style and value.

Perhaps you know our shoes and their modest prices but look at the markings for the July sale.

Women's Oxfords—$2.50, $3, $3.50 Sorts, $1 Pair.

But little space to tell you of the styles except that the lot is a grand jumble of unsold oxfords from last season. A size for eight of every ten women. Good leathers.

$3, $3.50 and $4 Oxfords and Sandals, $1.50.

Odds and fews in one lot, all for women's feet. Various leathers d many sizes.

Three Leathers in $3.50 and $4 Oxfords, $2.00.

Also two strap sandals. High and low heels, patent, dull and tan leathers: Women's sizes (Some out.)

One Lot Men's $4 and $5 Oxfords, $3.35 Pair.

One Lot Men's $3.50 and $4 Oxfords, $2.00 Pair.

And Now the Summer Clearance of Fine Millinery

Twice each year we employ this method of quickly closing out all the higher grade hats from our own workrooms, and the event is largely awaited by all women who realize the advantage of obtaining these hats at far less than usual prices.

Each hat in the collection is in excellent condition. Many very recent and a number are copies of French models.

1,000 SHIRTS FOR MEN

A week or so ago we hold a sale of 2,500 shirts for Men. Fresh and new from a maker whose surplus we dispose of each summer. During the sale a man showed us a striped Madras Shirt worth two dollars. We showed him the identical fabric and pattern at 98c., and ours had two self colored detached collars. Surprised him a bit, for he is a maker of shirts, and he didnt know they could be sold under $2, even without collars.

98c $1.50 Shirts in a multitude of patterns. All are coat styles, negligee or pleated sorts, white or colors, with laundered cuffs and collar band; or negligee with attached collars and turnback cuffs; or flannel shirts with pockets and attached collars.

69c $1.00 Shirts in stripes and figures on white or dark grounds Attached collars or neck bands. Coat styles—soft or pleated bosoms.

39c 50c Shirts of good Madras; stripes predominate on light grounds. Collar band, negligee body and attached laundered cuffs All sizes in the three groups.
